

Learn how to work with our bounty of natural ingredients: instructors help you slice, sauté and steam your way to culinary wizardry. Check out these spots for classes, cooking demos and practical tips for preparing regionally sourced dishes.

Cooking Schools

Explore the Coast, we'll point the way! Hike natural areas, see cultural museums on your route, kayak our famous water trails. Whether you want a seasoned pro to guide a new-to-you adventure, or a curated itinerary to help you make the most of your trip, these activities will have you working up an appetite.

Guided Tours & Experiences

Buy from local farms and vendors. There's nothing quite like crisp lettuce, fresh-cut flowers or eggs collected the same day you buy them. These community hubs offer a chance to support growers and artisans from the Coast. Check online for seasonal openings and hours.

Farmers Markets

Sip on beer, wine and spirits from the North Coast. The experts open their doors to curious customers: whether you're a casual drinker or a long-time connoisseur, you'll have the chance to sample something new—and peek into the process.

Breweries, Wineries & Distilleries

Check out these spots for locally made goods. Take a bite of the Coast home with you (but don't be surprised if some of these goods get gobbled up on the car ride!). From handmade candy and sweet treats, to just-caught fish, to in-season produce grown right here, you'll find something that suits your taste.

Retail

Enjoy a taste of how talented chefs bring out the flavors of the Coast. You'll experience unique dishes made with from-the-source ingredients, creative takes on traditional favorites and plenty of delicious meals both nourishing and indulgent. Come hungry!

Restaurants

Go straight to the source and see where our fresh food comes from. Meet the farmers and hang out with their animals. Learn how crops are planted, harvested and shipped out to restaurants and businesses in our region—and beyond.

Farms

Find places to stay as you explore the Food Trail. From camping in historic covered wagons, to farmhouse rooms for rent, to a honey bed-and-breakfast, you have a host of options for where you sleep.

Lodging

Get out there! At these stops, you'll find food in the wild. Haul crab nets from the salty seas, pluck tomatoes right from the vine, search out native berries on a walk through the woods. Have fun as you "dig in" to the North Coast and learn something new.

Learn, Taste & Trek: Experience the Food Trail

The North Coast Food Trail highlights the unique culinary and agricultural experiences from Cannon Beach, through the Tillamook Coast, to Lincoln City. This slice of the Oregon shore has an abundance of producers, shops, vendors and restaurants, who share a passion for bringing out the region's flavors. Follow wild seafood from the fisherman's net to the chef's block; learn how to forage the woods for rare mushrooms; tour the farms—and meet the cows—supplying dairy for Oregon-made cheese, ice cream and butter. Get a taste of fresh coast-to-table fare as you explore foodways and check out the "roots" of your meal.

Walk on the Wild ^{Safe} Side

We get it, adventure is calling (that's why you're on the Food Trail!), but don't get too wild. The farm animals and equipment you'll encounter are exciting, but caution is important. Don't let kids play unsupervised, and please follow any rules that property-owners lay out. With attention, we can ensure the Trail is safe and everyone has a great time.
